

Hello lovely Willow children 😊. I don't think it matters what I write here as you will all just look at the gorgeous faces below!! However, there are a few things to report. Lots of you had a lovely Bank Holiday and celebrated VE Day with picnics in your gardens. There has also been a HUGE amount of hard work and effort going into your home school work too. Your photographs show off the fantastic results of what you've been doing and the comments your Mummy's and Daddy's have been writing very often mention how proud they are of you and all your efforts. There couldn't be better words for the Willow team to hear than that, and we are all super proud of every single one of you. Lots of you are being more independent when doing your school work, which is letting your parents get on with their work; this is so grown up of you and very important to keeping everyone at home smiley. We hope you enjoyed the videos we shared this week. Watch this space for more to come. We miss you all very much, with love from the Willow Team x Enjoy the quiz!!!

Willow Baby Photo Gallery 🥰

In honour of the arrival of James Clements may I present to you (drum roll please)
Willow Class as babies and toddlers.

Guess Who?

Can you identify your class mates and teachers?
Aren't you all just soooooo cute?
